Call for Volunteers at Day of Caring

(Everett, Wash.) – Volunteers are needed on Friday, September 28th for Day of Caring, United Way of Snohomish County's annual event, that brings together hundreds of volunteers who are committed to creating positive change in our community.

This year, many projects will help families with young children struggling to get by, including a few projects from our CORE Collaboratives. Creating Open Roads to Equity (CORE) is a collaborative approach of United Way of Snohomish County that removes barriers to help families escape the traps of poverty. There are 29 projects in communities across Snohomish County.

Volunteer teams complete projects for local nonprofit agencies that often lack the necessary resources to tackle this work themselves. This year, up to 1,000 volunteers are needed and there are still hundreds of spots available!

Project information, including volunteer registration, can be found at www.uwsc.org/volunteer-days.

For more information, contact Brooke Bloomquist at brooke.bloomquist@uwsc.org or 425.374.5553.

Join us this Friday and be a volunteer to the core!

CORE: Creating Open Roads to Equity is a collaborative approach of United Way of Snohomish County that removes barriers to help families escape the traps of poverty. We are the only organization in Snohomish County that is both a funder and an active partner in five CORE Collaboratives – groups of cross-sector partners focused on shared, long-term solutions for families struggling to get by.
