COVID-19 RESTAURANT INDUSTRY RELIEF
From Georgetown Brewing, United Ways of the Pacific Northwest and United Way of Snohomish County

The restaurant industry is one of the hardest hit employment sectors because of COVID-19. While staying home was pertinent for safety, it created a significant hardship on its workers. Given this need, Georgetown Brewing, United Ways of the Pacific Northwest, and United Way of Snohomish County partnered to create a relief fund specifically for people who worked at a bar or restaurant in 2020. The fund provides financial support, such as a rent or utility payments, to individuals or families who are experiencing financial hardship.

How to Apply
To access this opportunity, please contact Jim Dean at jdean@interfaithwa.org or Sarah Olsen at solsen@interfaithwa.org with Interfaith Shelter or call 425.252.6672.

Apply by May 1, 2021.

Eligibility Documentation
Please provide one of the following forms of documentation to determine eligibility:

1. 2020 paystub/W2
2. Employment roster
3. Letter from establishment
4. Other proof of employment at a bar or restaurant in 2020

U.S. citizenship isn’t required. We encourage our Black, Indigenous, People of Color and other underrepresented communities to apply.